The Holly Berry Peapod

The Holly Berry Peapod can be used as a serving piece or centerpiece. Its wired edge allows you to form the piece into a basket or lay flat. We love it lined with votives on a dining table or used to serve hors d'oeuvres. It also makes a beautiful bread basket. Handmade from hemp that is then glazed over. A great gift for yourself or someone you love!

Whether you're looking for something small (to fit under the tree) or large (to fit over the mantel), Meyer Vogl Gallery can help you select the perfect piece of artwork to gift this holiday season. Having recently opened a location here on Daniel Island, the fine art gallery represents more than 30 artists, ranging from emerging painters to established contemporary masters. Not sure which work they'll love? Give a gift certificate to the gallery. Gift certificates come with complementary art consultations to help the gift recipient select a piece that'll enhance or kick off their art collection.

Owned by two local artists and one art nut, Meyer Vogl Gallery has been in business since 2013 and has grown its roster of artists exponentially during that time.
